

Essay Writing Tips

To win your dream Quince, you need a winning essay. Follow these seven (7) simple tips for writing a winning essay:

1. Check out the rules.

Make sure you know what they are. For this contest, you must answer all three questions, they must be answered in English, and each question must be between 100-500 words.

2. Write from your heart.

This is a place for you to tell us your dreams, goals, and your life. Be honest and brave, and most importantly, have fun. Just think, Daddy Yankee could perform at your Quince! All because of what you write in this essay.

3. Be bold.

Tell us why you deserve to win this fabulous Quince. Make us want to read more! Lead your essay with a statement that is inspiring, funny, or unique to help set you apart from other entries.

4. Tell us what matters most.

This contest is all about you, so tell us who you are and what matters most to you. Possible discussion points for your essay include: why you think you should be selected; any hardships you have overcome (financial, medical, etc.); your goals, dreams, or plans in life; your volunteer service and community involvement; scholastic achievements; and how winning the Grand Prize would affect your life.

5. Take your time.

Don't rush! We'll be here until July 31. Be sure to sign up for email and text alerts, and we'll you send you deadline reminders!

6. One last look.

Check your essay answers one last time before you click submit. Remember, this is a chance to win the Quince of your dreams and have Daddy Yankee perform for you, your family and your friends.

7. Have fun!

This is your chance to tell us your story, your family's story and why you feel you should win a fabulous Quince!
